

Globalization & Enterprise Content Management Comsys Capabilities – Public Sector

CMS Overview

A Content Management System (CMS) or a Web Content Management System (WCMS) is a software solution for organizing and facilitating collaborative creation and management of content (i.e. web pages, images, documents, etc.) in an easy to use interface. Most CMS solutions have evolved to provide complete website management functionality.

Business Problem

COMSYS provides the public sector with a suite of services focused on Content Management Systems (CMS) solutions. Facing a number of unique content management challenges, public sector websites must comply with an ever-increasing load of federal, state and local regulations, including, but not limited to, the American with Disabilities Act (ADA) and Section 508 compliance.

With limited procurement processes for acquiring IT talent combined with a requirement for a diverse technology skill set, public sector organizations are facing gridlock over meeting various regulations and implementing compliant websites in a time and cost-effective manner. Further complicating these obstacles, there is a growing demand for multi-lingual support for these websites and an expansive number of authors responsible for continuous content updates.

COMSYS Solution

COMSYS understands the extensive business benefits realized with the implementation of a content management system. CMS delivers an easy to use interface to help clients, across all industries, organize and facilitate collaborative creation and management of content, including web pages, images and documents.

Focusing on user-experience, COMSYS ensures application and website accessibility adherence to industry best practices in usability and design. These core activities focus on website design, information architecture creation and general web strategy creation.
